Present Taxation System Is Unjust Statement-Claims

Lengthy Municipal Brief Will Go Before Provincial Commission Next Week

Land Paying Too Big a Portion of Revenue; Grant System Criticized

The present system of taxing agricultural lands to pay social service and other costs which are necessarily incurred by urban populations, which is claimed unfair, is one of the chief points of contention which representatives of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities will press when they appear before Judge A. M. Harper and member of the provincial commission on taxation next Wednesday morning in the courthouse at Vancouver.

A lengthy brief has been prepared by Neeve William Crouch, president, which contains in compact form, the reasons why municipalities advocate a change in taxation and this will be considered by the union executive prior to meeting the commission. While the brief may undergo minor changes, it is not expected that the substance matter will be changed materially.

Under various subheadings the brief goes extensively into government grants and claims that municipalities should receive a larger portion. It points out that although assertions have been made that municipalities are wilfully extravagant, there is not a municipality in the province which cannot show a better record than that of the provincial government during the last thirteen years.

LARGE LAND INTEREST

The brief in part states: "We wish at this time to correct an apparent misunderstanding which is that all municipalities are practically cities. This is absolutely incorrect. With a few certain exceptions, well known to yourselves, we submit that many municipalities in British Columbia have just as large an agricultural interest as have the unorganized portions of the province. We believe that an analysis of agricultural production will prove this beyond dispute. Agricultural lands outside the municipalities are taxed upon an entirely different basis to that which obtains within municipal boundaries. The effect of this is that agriculturists within municipalities pay from four to eight times what their competitors without the municipalities pay."

"We submit that the natural resources of the province of British Columbia belong to the people and further, that such taxes as income tax, gasoline tax, liquor profits, pari-mutuel tax, amusement tax, etc., are paid by individuals and not by acres of land. We claim that these moneys should be divided upon some equitable principle and not as at present, to be collected by the province and doled out as an act of grace. The present system enables the government, whenever financial stringencies arise, to hand over its liabilities while retaining the assets."

MOTHERS' PENSIONS

Under the heading of mothers' pensions the brief continues: "We have a large floating population which is absolutely necessary, and to make any municipality responsible for payments under the Mothers' Pension (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

PROTEST NEW WATER MOVE

C.M.A. Group Says Large Users Cannot Stand Increase in Charges Now

Protest on behalf of commercial water users regarding a proposed increase in the service charge for this class of consumer had been filed with the City Council by the Victoria and Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

It is claimed that users of water through the larger pipes, which would have to bear the major share of the suggested increase, cannot afford to carry any more of the burden of civic government costs. They ask that no changes be made at this time.

BANK INQUIRY IS TERMINATED

Premier Bennett Thanks Members of Royal Commission for Work

Hope Expressed That Conclusions Will Help Canada's Recovery

By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—With words of thanks and appreciation from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, the Royal Commission on Banking concluded its public sittings to-day. He knew, said Mr. Bennett, it would be the pleasure of the House of Commons "in a more formal way" to thank the members of the commission for what had been done, but he desired to express his deep sense of appreciation, particularly to Lord Macmillan and Sir Charles Addis, for their assistance.

Their coming and undertaking the work, said Mr. Bennett, was "another illustration of the deep and abiding interest which the people of the United Kingdom feel in Canada." Canada had a particular claim on her own citizens which did not exist with reference to those outside the Dominion.

The great indebtedness, which the commission set toward those who had assisted in the investigation, both in Ottawa and at other points throughout the country, was also mentioned.

It was noted with the commission to consider the material gathered, and to draw conclusions therefrom. He hoped its members would be able to reach conclusions which would prove helpful and assist Canada toward recovery and prosperity.

ELECTION SOON IN ALBERTA

D. M. Duggan, Conservative Party Leader, Announces Convention in November

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 15.—Possibility of an early Alberta provincial election is seen by political observers in the announcement of a Conservative convention by D. M. Duggan, party leader in the province.

Mr. Duggan said the convention would be held some time in November at either Edmonton, Calgary or Red Deer, a definite date and place to be announced later. Some 500 delegates are expected to attend and arrangements are being made to have Prime Minister R. B. Bennett attend the convention, which will prepare the party's platform for the next election.

Reports of an early election are furthered by campaign speeches being delivered in various parts of the province by Liberal and Conservative leaders.

Centre of Disturbance North of Tampico; Maximum Wind Velocity 75 Miles an Hour; Plane Service Is Halted

Associated Press
Tampico, Mexico, Sept. 15.—A tropical hurricane struck the Mexican coast at 9 o'clock to-day, extending on a line from Tuxpan to a point midway between this city and Matamoros.

The centre of the disturbance was north of Tampico, with a maximum velocity of about seventy-five miles per hour. The wind blew at a forty-six-mile clip here, in a northwest direction.

No damage was immediately reported here. Plane service was halted.

Washington, Sept. 15.—A hurricane, born in tropical waters, last night swept toward the south Atlantic states in force, weather bureau officials said.

It was equal to or greater than that which played havoc along the middle Atlantic coast a few weeks ago.

Moving along a west-northwest path it was 450 miles slightly south-east of Jacksonville, Fla., at 1 p.m. E.S.T.

Wireless crackled with warnings.

TWO MORE FOR LIBERAL SLATE

Gordon Sloan and Gordon Wismer to Run in Vancouver Centre

Confidence in Liberal Leader and Faith in Policies Voiced

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—Gordon McG. Sloan and Gordon S. Wismer, both lawyers, making their first bid for political recognition, will represent the Liberal party in Vancouver Centre at the provincial general election in November. Selection was made Thursday night at Moose Hall when Liberals of the riding and those from other city divisions packed the auditorium on Burrard Street and eliminated one other aspirant, Dr. Daniel McLellan.

Dr. McLellan, who made a very close run, formally moved an unanimous vote for J. T. Dawson, and the veteran chairman J. A. Russell, were also nominated but withdrew before balloting by 203 seated delegates.

ENTHUSIASTIC

Proceedings throughout were enthusiastic. A number of Liberal candidates in other Vancouver ridings spoke briefly.

After some personal history during which he said he offered no apology for being a lawyer, Mr. Sloan, whose father died as cabinet minister of B.C., touched briefly on the two great classes which he thinks demand first action by the government—unemployed breadwinners and unemployed youth. "Youth of to-day is losing courage and faith just at a time when these qualities are so essential," he declared. He painted the tragedy of young men and women coming from school to find nothing for them to do.

In British Columbia he saw it necessary that sale of the products from basic industries should be state assisted. He saw the need of national credit for national undertakings, for a central bank for a balanced budget and a government which can live within its means. In the last analysis, he declared, sanctity of human life must override every other consideration.

TRIBUTE TO LEADER

He paid tribute to the leadership of Mr. Pattullo and contrasted the Liberal party and its platform to the political "mixed grill" offered by others.

NOTED WOMAN PILOT KILLED

Associated Press
Brooklands, Eng., Sept. 15.—Lady Clayton-East-Clayton, noted young amateur pilot and widow of the explorer, Sir Robert Clayton-East-Clayton, was killed to-day in an unusual airplane accident here.

As she was entering the plane it started up. She tried desperately to climb into the cockpit as the machine rapidly gained speed, but was thrown to the ground violently. As the plane turned over on its nose, her skull was fractured and she died shortly after being taken to hospital.

Sir Robert died last year from a mysterious germ disease contracted during an unsuccessful airplane and motor journey searching for a lost oasis in the Libyan Desert a few months previously.

Practice Economy; Roof Still Leaks

Saanich Council Cannot Afford to Repair Municipal Hall Roof

"Economy at all costs—we must sacrifice our comforts in the interest of the ratepayers' money," was the theme song for a brief spell at the Saanich council meeting yesterday evening when the executive officials were confronted with a report on the need of reshingling the roof of the municipal hall.

"How much will it cost?" was the spontaneous query.

"About $153 plus a possible $10 for additional materials," came the reply.

"I don't think we can afford it," reported one councillor.

"It really is necessary because the rain leaks in through the roof," he was informed.

"Unless it is absolutely necessary I think we should table the suggestion," offered another economist, and so the suggestion was left in abeyance and the municipal employees warned to protect themselves against the rain until the return of prosperity.

Claims Jones Should Resign Immediately

Declaration of Independence Calls for Him to Drop Portfolio

Mr. Jones' Statement, It is Also Pointed Out, Leaves No Doubt But That He Has Made a Statement Which is diametrically opposed to Premier Tolmie, Mr. Jones' present leader, and to any ministers of his cabinet. Further the group has emphatically stated that when the question of leadership is up for consideration Premier Tolmie will not be considered.

Mr. Jones cannot, it is declared, travel with the Tolmie forces until the battle opens and then desert to the enemy camp. The invidious position in which the finance minister finds himself is the immediate resignation of Mr. Jones, who has announced he will run as an independent in South Okanagan.

The reason offered for remaining by Mr. Jones is that he must continue to direct the affairs of his department carried no great weight with those who criticize his plan to stay in office to the last moment as it is pointed out that there is precedent for the office of Finance Minister being taken over by another minister as other portfolios have been doubled during reorganization.

The only course open to Mr. Jones, say political observers, is to follow his declaration with the resignation which would have become due at the time he issued the statement.

FARMERS BENEFIT AS PRICES RISE

Associated Press

Washington, Sept. 15.—A study of food prices during the first months of the United States recovery programme has convinced Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, that "generally farmers are getting the benefit of the extra money that consumers are paying out."
In the first issue of the "Consumers' Guide to Retail Prices" to be published bi-weekly to protect the public against exorbitant costs, Dr.

Howe said to-day prices for farm products had increased forty-seven per cent from February 15 to August 15,
while the cost of articles the farmer
had to purchase had advanced eleven per cent.

"While we have reduced the gap between these two prices," he added, "we are still a long way from our goal of parity in prices for farmers."

SOURDOUGHS IN REUNION

Tales of Yukon Gold Recounted at Los Angeles Convention

Canadian Press
Los Angeles, Sept. 15.—Tales of adventure and danger along trails of the Yukon and amid Alaskan snows were told again here yesterday as the annual convention of the International Sourdoughs Association opened.

Men who mushed over the snows in the great gold stampede which started in 1896 gathered here to swap reminiscences of the days when they fought death in the Chilkoot Pass, in the White Horse rapids and in the Arctic blizzards.

"Klondyke Kate," Rockwell-Mason,
queen of the entertainers of Alaska-Yukon country, held "open court" at the convention hotel and sourdoughs put on a new stampede to her reception. She told of going to a jewelry store here to make a purchase. The clerk offered her some "nugget" stick-pins.

"Nuggets for one dollar?" she exclaimed. "Oh, certainly," replied the clerk. She opened her purse and took out a nugget larger than those on the pins. "Give me a dollar for this," she said. "I will not," the clerk retorted.
Virgin gold, the nugget was worth $25.

LAWYER LEGALLY WAS INVISIBLE

Canadian Press

Sheffield, Eng., Sept. 15.—A humorous incident occurred at the Sheffield quarter sessions when Gratton Doyle, a barrister, who had been selected by a prisoner to defend him in court, plead-

was without his robes and was therefore legally "invisible." The procedure of the court being that if counsel
makes an application when not properly
robed the recorder is bound to say,
"I cannot see you; I cannot hear you."
When called upon, Doyle said he was not there, but would return in a few moments. C. Milton, assistant recorder, said he would allow him to leave and return "visible." The barrister then left the court and returned later in his robes.

tion is repealed is forecast by chairman Pat Morrison of the Senate Finance Committee as one of the important tasks facing the next session of Congress.

Mr. Morrison told newspapermen revision of those laws would be necessary
because "it looks like the requisite number of states are coming in on repeal."

"I want to see as much revenue raised as the industry will stand," he said, adding: "We ought to get at least $500,000,000 in internal revenue taxes from liquor and wine, and it now looks as if we will get $200,000,000 a year on beer."

PHOTOGRAPH HEADACHES

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 15.—Canadian Press.—A photograph of a "splitting headache" was among pictures exhibited to-day at the opening of the convention of the Biological Photographic Association.

Among the exhibits are photographs
made with infra red rays, an innovation that hardly has passed experimental stages. They are designed to photograph beneath the skin surface.
One photograph shows the clouding of an air cell in the forehead, a frontal sinus indicating the presence of an infection and the cause of a "splitting headache."

WORLD CLUB FOR TRADE

Sir Garrett Anderson Offers Solution for Economic Dilemma

Canadian Press Cable
Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 15.—Sir Garrett Anderson in his presidential address to the Association of British Chambers of Commerce yesterday suggested "a club of world trade" as a solution of the dilemma brought about by adjournment of the World Economic Conference.

"The barometer of our trade seems to have stopped falling and shows signs of a rise," he said. The government, first at Ottawa and later by recent trade treaties had started on a forward march from the cross-roads of despair.

"To some critics," Sir Garrett continued, "the Ottawa agreements seemed hostile to nations outside the British Empire. It is now evident these critics were not only wrong, but that the British Empire, not for the first time, is showing the world the way out of its troubles."

"Nations of the empire cannot only afford to welcome hundred nations to world trade but, by enlarging their group, will strengthen advantages of the trade bond they made at Ottawa and hasten results. A club of world trade with a wide membership, bound together by fair trade agreements, would favorable nation treaties, trading on principles which encourage exchange of goods and services, and by the combined action of its central banks in maintaining stable prices, currencies
and exchange between the members,
should be large enough to revive world trade."

NEW RECORD FOR PEAK CLIMBING

Three Mountains Scaled by Engineer Within Twenty Hours

Canadian Press

Leicester, Eng., Sept. 15.—A young Leicester engineer, Frank Noakes, claims to have set up a new record by standing on the summits of the three highest mountains in England, Scotland and Wales within twenty hours.
Noakes drove 500 miles in a fast car to accomplish the feat. He started at the summit of Ben Nevis in Scotland at midnight, and after twenty hours' driving finished at Snowdon, after climbing Scafell on the way.

He said he descended Ben Nevis in ninety-five minutes, and then headed for Scafell, which he climbed in three hours fifteen minutes. He ascended Snowdon in ninety minutes. "I ate only three sandwiches in the twenty hours," he said.

BALLOONISTS RETURN HOME

Akron, O., Sept. 15.—Ward T. Van Orman and Frank A. Trotter, balloon racing team, arrived at their homes
here yesterday evening as a happy conclusion to their adventure in the Canadian wilds where they were forced down while participating in the Gordon Bennett balloon race.

Missing nine days after they had left Chicago, September 2, the Akron balloonists were located in a Canadian wilderness when they chopped down a power line pole.

DOMINION AUTO FIGURES GIVEN

Cars Operated in Canada Run
Into Tax Bill of $56,700,000

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 15.—Motor vehicles operated in Canada ran their owners
into a tax bill of $56,700,000 last year, according to an estimate released yesterday evening by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. That meant over $50 for every registered motor vehicle to say nothing of the fines.

The provinces collected $21,126,271
from motor vehicle taxes, and the federal government another $27,083,316 in gasoline taxes. The Dominion took in $4,969,471 on import duties and excise taxes. In addition there was the sales tax on cars sold, estimated at $2,500-000, and the import duty on gasoline estimated at $1,500,000.

Motor vehicle registrations in Canada
for 1932 amounted to 1,114,503, including 945,564 passenger automobiles, 1,530 motor buses, 157,990 trucks and other commercial vehicles, and 9,419 motorcycles. This was a decrease from the 1931 registrations of 86,404 motor vehicles, or 7.2 per cent. The greatest decrease was in New Brunswick, where total registrations decreased by 16.6 per cent. Saskatchewan followed with a decrease of 15.5 per cent in total registrations.

Canada, with one motor vehicle to every 9.5 persons, ranked fourth in density, the United States leading with a density of one motor vehicle to every 5.1 persons, and Hawaii and New Zealand ranking second and third. Ontario, with 6.5 persons per motor vehicle, had the greatest density in Canada. British Columbia was second with 7.7 persons per motor vehicle.

SAUERKRAUT FESTIVAL

Forreston, Ill., Sept. 15.—This town of approximately 60 inhabitants held its annual observation of "sauerkraut
day," and this is what happened:

"Two tons of sauerkraut was consumed, and if the 'hot dogs' that disappeared were placed end to end there would have been a string of them two miles long."

There was no charge for this culinary festival.

MANITOBA HAS NEW SCHEME

Programme of Public Works to Replace Direct Unemployment Relief

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—A programme of carefully planned public works to take the place of the dole or direct unemployment relief had the endorsement of all cities of Manitoba and the municipalities of greater Winnipeg to-day.

At a conference here, Premier John Bracken declared that, with 72,403 persons on relief in Manitoba to-day, 20-000 more than a year ago, the situation called for different treatment than direct relief.

Since October, 1931, he said a total of $20,000,000 had been spent on relief in Manitoba. There was no tangible asset for the money now being spent,
he said, and he favored a programme of public works.

The Dominion government will be urged to extend credit to the province and municipalities for public relief works at the same low rate of interest, as the Dominion itself pays on the money it devotes to relief expenditures.

MURDOCK WILL APPEAL ACTION

Believes Delegates Will Support Him at Next Convention

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—Prediction that the 900-odd delegates at their next convention will not confirm the action of the executive board of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in removing Senator James Murdock from the office of Canadian vice-president was made here by Senator James Murdock.

"Unquestionably I will appeal against the action taken and against the Gar-like attitude of President A. F. Whitney," Senator Murdock stated. "Unquestionably, in my judgment, the delegates will not sustain the action which has been taken."

More than 37,000 members had been lost to the brotherhood in eleven months by the action of President Whitney, contrary to convention instructions, in authorizing and permitting insurance transfer agents to compel brotherhood members to transfer their insurance, Senator Murdock said in speaking of the original charges he had brought against Mr. Whitney.

RABBIT UNCOVERS CACHE OF MONEY

Boy's Spending Orgy Stopped
When Police Investigate
Finding of $6,000

Canadian Press
Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 15.—A rabbit yesterday was given credit for the start of a buying "orgy" that swept Puyallup, Wash., and Tacoma and was finally traced to the discovery by four Puyallup boys of $6,000.

The money, hidden under a house,
was found in a gunnysack by one of the lads when his rabbit escaped and vanished under the building.

But the quartette's dream of prosperity and spending was rudely interrupted when police investigated and began the task of restoring the money to its owners. The owners of the house,
Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Nelson, were away
at the time.

While the rabbit that started it all was contentedly nibbling lettuce in its pen, the four youths were at home
after a grilling at the police station.
Puyallup police recovered more than $4,000 of the "loot" and are seeking the remaining $2,000.

Raise Lake Level To Save Ducks

Canadian Press
Calgary, Sept. 15.—Damming of an irrigation ditch to divert water into Stobart Lake in an effort to save thousands of dying ducks was started today by the Canadian Pacific Railway
at the instigation of the Alberta Fish and Game Society. Tests have proved that leaches were the cause of deaths among the wild fowl, and it is believed raising of the lake level will spread the death-causing leaches. For this purpose, the water backed behind the dam
will be turned into the lake.

Assurance was received to-day that Dr. William Rowan, university of Alberta expert, will join investigation
this week in an effort to save the ducks.

Fierce Grizzly Is Disappearing

Canadian Press
Washington, Sept. 15.—The grizzly bear, mighty monarch of the rocky mountains, is going the way of the buffalo.

Although the same may not be true in Canada, figures for the United States point toward the ultimate disappearance of the grizzly. Each year the ranks are thinned. The latest census gives the grizzly population of American national forests at 664, compared with 747 the year before. The report states "extinction of the species seems near."

In Alaska, however, they continue to thrive. The census there estimates the population of grizzlies and the big Alaska brown bear increased from 3,000 to 4,500 from 1931 to 1932.

TROUBLESOME TOOTH

Pomeroy, O., Sept. 15.—Edward anchored itself to his jaw-bone. Ralph went to the hospital, surgeons did their work, and now he's back to false teeth again."

The European Starlings which were imported to America some forty years ago have increased so fast that where they congregate to roost they kill trees because their droppings act the same on the roots of trees as the lye from ashes. Our photograph shows Jack Miner, famous Canadian naturalist, in his pine grove, which was destroyed by these pests, and the starlings coming in to roost at sunset. Jack Miner says the big problem is to control them. Shooting only drives the birds to some other locality. Although the Canadian naturalist has netted over 300,000 starlings at his sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario, it has made no noticeable difference in the flock.

BOTH IN AND OUT

The statement issued by Hon. J. W. Jones that he is independent of the government and will be an independent candidate at the same time remaining in that government as Minister of Finance until the election, puts him in an impossible position. He certainly can not be independent of the government without dissociating himself from it, for he can not by implication be both in and out of the government at the same time. As a member of the administration he must share responsibility for its record. How, then, can he reserve the right to criticize the government as a candidate in the election campaign, if he sees fit, while remaining a member of it?

Is Mr. Jones going to run against himself? Could he attack the government as an independent candidate in South Okanagan and at the same time defend it as the Minister of Finance? Would he do both of these things in one speech, or would he do them in two speeches? The thing is so fantastic that it is hard to believe that Mr. Jones, who has been a hard-working and conscientious departmental head, with considerable experience as a legislator, appreciated the extraordinary effect and implications of his announcement before he made it.

Equally amazing is the acquiescence of the Premier and the other ministers in this unprecedented proposition. Their approval in its final analysis means that, through Mr. Jones the independent, they are in potential opposition to the government which they constitute. Like Mr. Jones they are both members of an administration whose head officially proclaims it to be "unitary," and through their approval of his course, they at the same time are not unitary, but independent. They are prospectively against themselves. Surely they can not be too blind to see that Mr. Jones' announcement of his independence is a repudiation of all of them, including himself, and an expression of want of confidence in the Premier. Otherwise, why is he not out as a candidate supporting the government?

It happens, however, that there are certain constitutional considerations involved in this situation which can not be dispensed with, and which ought to be taken into account by the Premier and his advisers, through the Prime Minister, and the Lieutenant-Governor. As such they must be a unit. They can not in the same breath advise His Honor on matters of public import, as a government, and in another imply that they have no confidence in that advice by declaring they are independent of the government. They can not both recommend things to His Honor as his advisers and at the same time reserve the right as independents to repudiate the recommendations. What would be the status of a recommendation to the Lieutenant-Governor by the government, for instance, of a warrant for special expenditure, originating with a Minister of Finance who has just announced his independence of the government, and his intention of running as a potential opponent of it?

Obviously, there were only two courses open to Mr. Jones. Either he should have announced his intention to run as a candidate of the Tolmie Unitarian government, in which case he properly could have remained in the ministry, or he should have withdrawn from the cabinet and announced himself as an independent or any other kind of a candidate he wished. He should have gone the way of either Mr. Pooley or Mr. Bruhn: the former proclaimed himself as a candidate supporting the government, while the latter retired from the ministry with the announcement of his independence. Instead he has tried to do both. It is high time there was some definite authoritative indication given to the Premier that this province has not yet abandoned responsible government.

BRITAIN AND ARGENTINA

Protectionists here and elsewhere make much of an adverse balance of trade. They seem much better pleased if there is a fifty-million-dollar credit margin on a billion-dollar turnover than a debit balance of the same amount on a two-billion-dollar business.

Some protectionist fallacies as they involve Great Britain's trade, for example, are contained in the consular report on "Economic Conditions in the Argentine Republic" for 1932. A table shows that from 1921 to 1932 the United Kingdom had an average yearly adverse balance of approximately $200,000,000 in its trade with the South American country. These are the kind of figures which send a chill down the spine of the British Protectionist. He will continue to argue that unless Britain sells more to the Argentine than she buys the trade must be injurious to Britain. He would probably inquire what would be the effect on a storekeeper who ran his business on the basis of buying more than he sells.

The analogy is false, of course, because it leaves many factors out of account. In the case of Britain one of the most important factors is shipping. The Manchester Guardian, with the report to which we have referred in mind, puts it this way:

If, as the Protectionist urges, we cut down the quantity of commodities we import from Argentina, we at once damage the considerable British shipping interests operating in South America. This is already happening. "Shipments of meat," says the report, "showed a decrease in 1932 compared with the year before of 8.7 per cent, chiefly owing to the restrictions placed on imports in all the principal European markets." Secondly, one has to remember the vast sums of English capital, estimated at $600,000,000, invested in Argentina in every kind of business ranging from insurance and banking to public utility companies. How is the interest to be paid except by an export surplus? It has, of course, been argued that all foreign investments are wicked or, alternatively, that the British investor has on old ideas already been repaid both interest and capital.

To follow out the Protectionist's doctrine, therefore, it would appear that Britain either must ruin her shipping and abandon her investments or open her markets to South American produce. She can not expect to have it both ways. Incidentally, Britain's investments in the Argentine are nearly a billion dollars greater than her investments in Canada.

REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

It will be admitted that one of the reasons Communism has very little chance of making headway in Canada is because so many people own their own homes. But a very real danger exists in thousands of municipalities—the danger that homes will be lost because of inability to pay the ever-increasing taxes. As The Vancouver Province quite properly points out, tax sales feed on tax sales. It says that last year a certain amount of property reverted to the city of Vancouver because taxes were not paid and nobody bought the property when it was put up for sale. This means that it is now off the tax roll and paying nothing into the municipal exchequer. This has to be followed, of course, by spreading the tax levy more thickly over those who are paying. So the process goes on.

"The tax rate becomes higher because the taxes are not paid," says our contemporary, and then proceeds: "The end, of course, is obvious unless the vicious circle can be broken. Ultimately there will be no taxpayers and the city will own all the property. If it is admitted that it is desirable that as large a proportion of our citizens as possible should own their own homes, some advantage might be given in taxation or assessment to home property as against speculative or revenue-producing property. It is the custom to exempt minimum incomes from taxation. It might be possible to exempt minimum home investments in the same way. It would possibly be more logical to do that than to exempt half the improvements as we do now."

A FOREST ARMY

One of the interesting experiments President Roosevelt is conducting in the United States under his national recovery campaign is the work assigned to an army of more than 300,000 men in the forest areas of the country. The majority of them are quite young men, living a regimented life in encampments with military equipment, serving under an oath and quasi-military discipline enforced not too rigorously by officers of the Regular Army and the military reserve. They have been enlisted to preserve the national forests and to perform all the other functions which, as Mr. Charles W. B. Hurd says in The New York Times, "by the most loosely-drawn construction come within the meaning of the word 'conservation.'"

Apart from flood control and soil erosion-prevention work, the following programme has been laid out for them:

1. Construction of 40,000 to 50,000 miles of horse and truck trails in the forests.
2. Construction of 10,000 miles of fire-fighting lines.
3. Building of a minimum of 4,000 miles of fire-breaks.
4. Improvement of at least 5,000,000 acres through thinning and clearing.
5. Conducting campaigns against three diseases and insects on 10,000,000 acres.
6. Fighting rodents, such as prairie dogs, on 6,000,000 acres.
7. Removal of fire hazards from hundreds of thousands of acres of land.
8. Planting of trees on a minimum of 300,000 acres.

The men who make up this forest army were enlisted by quotas from the states in accordance with population. Aside from special classes, we are told, selection of recruits was made from men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, unemployed, unmarried, and with dependents. Untrained as they were at the start, latest reports announce that they have "warmed up" to their work and developed an esprit de corps, best illustrated by the fact that in many cases the men have themselves pitched in with a will to do individual tasks. Thus not only is the plan providing employment for many classes of young men—a large proportion come from the industrial areas—it is healthful occupation, physically and morally.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE STRUGGLE FOR SEA POWER

The Providence Journal

Ocean transportation companies, in common with land transportation services, have suffered terribly during this economic crisis. Evidence accumulates that the passing of the depression will not end their troubles if the current competitive race loses none of its present intensity. One wonders what is to be the outcome of this titanic contest for maritime supremacy, backed as it is not alone by private capital but also by the exchequers of governments.

TREES THAT PAY FOR THEMSELVES

The Winnipeg Tribune

Many a farm in the west has been saved by the planting and cultivation of trees. Shelter belts properly made have protected the crops from wind and from extremes of temperatures, and have helped in collecting and conserving moisture and in directing it to the best advantage. And, perhaps equally important, they have tempered the flatness and barrenness of the prairie and have helped to make even the lone shack look and feel like a real home.

After nearly two generations of precept and practice of the gospel of tree planting the most progressive prairie farmers now accept it without question. And a curious and timely endorsement of it now comes to hand. Mr. Alan B. Beavan, representing the Canadian Forestry Association, speaking of an extended tour in Alberta and Saskatchewan which he made last year, states that no western farmer known to him who had planted trees extensively was on relief. Farms with generous tree belts, he says, produce one-third more than those without this protection.

There is also the advantage to the country generally. A prairie region properly afforested is a region of more equable climate and one in which all the works of civilization may be carried on under favorable and happy conditions.

Loose Ends

Mr. Beak is caught in a moment of weakness—and resolves to do his duty by the country—not overlooking his omissions, of course—and he finds that the problems of government, after all, are quite simple.

By H. B. W.

WEAKNESS

MR. BEAK hadn't been caught in a moment of weakness, I suppose he would have been able to fight his way clear. But he was feeling very low and discouraged after a poker game at Colonel Blossom's the previous night, when he lost $1.75 and probably drank more home-made wine than is good for the stomach. And I suppose if he hadn't been leaning moodily on his gate, the government's organizers wouldn't have noticed him at all. They had already interviewed George Pudgebury and Colonel Blossom and most of the people along the main road without success when they came to Mr. Beak.

"There's a fellow who looks dumb enough," said the first organizer. "Let's ask him."

"Not quite dumb enough, I should think," said the second organizer, "but it won't do any harm to try."

"Look here, my man," said the first organizer to Mr. Beak, "how would you like to become a member of the provincial government?"

"Now," said Mr. Beak listlessly.

"Think of the honor," said the second organizer.

"Hokey," said Mr. Beak.

"Think of serving your country," said the first organizer.

"Now," said Mr. Beak.

"Well, there's a salary of about a thousand dollars between now and election day," said the second organizer, "but of course that wouldn't interest you."

"No," said Mr. Beak quickly, "that don't interest me at all. But come to think of it, a man must do his share in these times. Maybe I could spare time to join the government. So long as the work ain't too hard."

"Oh, there's no work to it," said the first organizer. "All you do is advise the government."

"That's easy," said Mr. Beak. "You see, I got a lot of other interests to take care of. I got to get my onions and squashes in and my potatoes pitted. I suppose I could take a few afternoons off to do that."

"Take as many as you like," said the second organizer.

SOLENN DUTY

YOU BETTER come along with us right now and get sworn in," said the first organizer.

Mr. Beak prepared to enter the automobile and the cabinet of British Columbia, but then hesitated again.

"I think maybe," he said.

"You can't back out now," said the first organizer.

"No, I ain't backin' out," said Mr. Beak. "I just thought maybe I oughter take off these overalls and put on my Sunday clothes to get sworn in."

"Oh, well, if you insist, but hurry," said the second organizer.

"You're sure," said Mr. Beak. "It's a thousand bucks between now and the election?"

"At least," said the first organizer.

"A man must do his duty in times like these," said Mr. Beak and went and changed his clothes.

POOR HUNTING

AFTER HE had been sworn in, Mr. Beak attended his first cabinet meeting. Apparently the organizers hadn't been very successful in their hunting that day, for only one other new minister had been captured. Mr. Beak supposed that this accounted for the gloomy atmosphere of the Executive Chamber.

"There is one thing I want you gent's to understand," said Mr. Beak. "And that is that I ain't supportin' this government."

"Oh, that's all right," said the cabinet. "We don't expect that. None of us is."

"And of course I'll run as an independent," said Mr. Beak. "I mean a independent-independent, absolutely."

 "It won't matter what you run as," said the cabinet rather grimly.

 "Of course, of course," said the cabinet, "but you needn't exert yourself much over that. We've already attended to that ourselves."

AREN'T WE ALL?

I'M ONLY HERE," said Mr. Beak, "to do my duty by the country."

"Oh, sure, aren't we all?" said the cabinet.

"Well," said Mr. Beak, "I must go down to my office and get to work. I want to get through early to-day so I can get my honious in. It looks like rain. Rain ain't good for honious."

"Don't work too hard in your office—remember your honious," said the cabinet.

"By the way," said Mr. Beak, turning back at the door, "it's a thousand dollars until the election ain't it? I don't want the money, mindju, but I just asked for information."

"Yes, it's a thousand or so," said the cabinet. "But who cares about that? We're just here because it's our duty. We probably won't even bother to draw our last salary cheque. But if we have time we may. Probably there'll be time."

"Well, I must get to work," said Mr. Beak. "Rain is bad for honious."

ABLE MAN

MY GOSH!" said the Premier after Mr. Beak had gone. "That's the dumbest clerk we've ever had around here."

"And that's saying something," said Mr. Pooley.

"Well, I suppose we'd better let Hinchliffe prepare the usual statement for the newspapers saying that this fellow is a bit of a nut, a well qualified for his portfolio by ability and experience and all that stuff," said the cabinet. "And by the way, what is his name, and what is his portfolio?"

"No one could remember and it was necessary to consult the officials who had sworn Mr. Beak in, before Mr. Hinchliffe could write the statement for the newspapers."

Next day Hon. Mr. Beak held his first conference with the newspaper correspondents.

"You know, there's a lot of bunk talked about the trouble of governing the country and all that," Mr. Beak said impressively. "You can say I said that was all honey. Government's a cinch. I've got on to most of it already. You see these there white butts? If I push that one, the deputy minister comes in. If I push that one the secretary comes in. If I push that one the stenographer comes in."

Whereupon Mr. Beak pushed all three, and the deputy, the secretary and the stenographer all came hurrying in at once.

"You see," said Mr. Beak, triumphantly to the newspaper correspondents, "that's all there is to it. Government is a cinch. Won't you say so?"

"Hany could do it but this 'ere 'opeless gover'mint. But it looks like rain and I got some important business in the country. Rain, you know, ain't good for honious."

TOO FAIR FOR SLEEP

Too fair for sleep, this night. The moon
 Tides high, and every fleet of white clouds sail
 Along the tranquil ocean of the sky:
 Each gullion for a moment draws its veil
 Across that still, bright face, men call a world.
 Crowned dead and cold, forgetful, passionless:
 A moment, then its glory is unveiled
 To wake strange thoughts no language can express.

Too fair for sleep, and to old dreams return
 Vague dreams whose splendor troubled many a breast
 When earth was young and man had yet to learn
 Life's answer to the spirit's quest.
 The night too fair, the universe too wide,
 Your hand, O love, draw nearer to my side!

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES.

September 15, 1908

(From The Times Files)
 The Scottish agricultural commission is expected to arrive in Victoria this evening on the steamer Chatter, The members, all of whom are here, are here for the purpose of studying methods of agriculture with the view of reporting, in order that the very latest methods may be employed in the old land.

The complete exclusion of dogs from the commercial portions of the city is aimed at in the amended by-law which Alderman Richard Hall has ready for submission to the City Council last evening.

The entries for the local horse show in connection with the fall fair closed Saturday night, and the secretary, J. E. Smart, has had a busy time indexing and sorting the different entries into the various classes.

Five hundred whales have been taken by the West Coast whalers, Orion and St. Lawrence, at the Sechart, and Kyquon stations, respectively, since the commencement of the season, according to advices brought by the steamship Tees, Captain Townsend, which returned from Mosquito Harbor last evening.

Manager Cliff Denham of the Victoria Theatre announces the return of the management of the popular Polard Lulliputian Opera Company on the nights of September 18 and 19.

A REAL INDEPENDENT

To the Editor:—In the coming election campaign I will not be identified with Conservative, or Liberal, pseudo-independents and eleven-hour refugees from ship-wrecked partyism.

CHILDREN AND THE FAIR

To the Editor:—Would you allow me a little space in your valuable paper for the following, which I think should interest all parents?

Why not allow all school children admission to the Willows during Fair week?

With the age limit at twelve years, many hundreds of children are going to be disappointed, both from an educational standpoint as well as amusement.

I would like other people's views about this.

OXFORD GROUP

To the Editor:—I have just been given the personnel of the new Oxford Group committee, chairman and secretary, and I notice that the same people have been re-elected. I have nothing against them, they are very good people, and honest workers, but I cannot see how the Oxford Group is going to save the world if the teams of leaders and speakers never change. How is it that we do not hear of any politicians and educationalists in Victoria taking an interest in the Oxford Group as in Vancouver and other cities? Why is it that people in Victoria find it so difficult to get into a group? I know of women who for months have tried to get into various groups, and each time they are politely told that the right group for them has not yet been formed, or that they are too old, or have not made enough progress spiritually. I have been to nearly every open meeting held in Victoria. I know all the speakers by sight, and could tell you beforehand what they are going to say. From the old lady who talks about her family to the high school kid, who talks piffle about how he passes his examination, since he has been some university training, long for something deeper and richer, and of more intellectual content. Are there no groupers interested in changing world conditions?

OUR PENITENTIARIES

To the Editor:—After reading The Globe's indictment of the penitentiary system in Kingston, I would value the privilege of giving public expression to the intensity of my own feelings. Ordinary expressions cannot adequately convey the sense of horror and dismay that must be felt by every Canadian citizen who becomes acquainted with the facts. From the bare recital the mind shrinks back appalled. No such foul blot has ever before stained our record. That such a hell upon earth

EKS PERMIT
FOR FOX FARMSanich Council Hears of Plans to Breed Animals in Ward SixPermit To Be Granted Subject to Sanitary Inspector's ApprovalPlans for the construction of a fox farm on Cultra Avenue in Ward Six, Sanich, were laid before the municipal council yesterday evening, when J. M. Stewart applied for a permit to build the farm. The permit is to be granted subject to the approval of the medical inspector.In outlining his plans, Mr. Stewart presented a list of nearby neighbors whom, he said, were all agreeable to the construction of the farm. His objections in this respect were supported by Councillor L. C. Hagan, who stated that there was no objection.Precaution was taken by the council to see that the new farm would not be a public nuisance, owing to previous experience with fox farms.It was decided to refer the application to the sanitary inspector for his approval.According to Mr. Stewart, nine pens will be constructed, and the total investment in the property is expected to reach $2,000. If the permit is granted the foxes will be imported from the States.A similar application from Eric H.
Evans, who is now on the Prater,
was referred to the school board, as it is felt the proposed location was too close to Mount Newton High School.

BENTWOOD

Activities for the coming season were discussed at a meeting of the West Sanich Women's Institute, held at the Institute Hall, Bentwood, on Tuesday afternoon. A series of five hundred and bridge games will be held alternately twice monthly, commencing on Wednesday, September 27. The prizes will be given, as well as a series of prizes for both bridge and tennis for the highest score at the end of the season. A children's bazaar will be held on Halloween
at the Institute Hall, and a benefit bridge party will be held on Thursday, September 21. On October 3, an afternoon bridge party will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. T.

be used to purchase a cedar chest,

SUCKING FISH

Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 15.—A sucking fish, an extremely infrequent visitor to western waters, has been reported for the first time for many years, by the marine biologists at the Plymouth aquarium. The remora, or sucking fish, was found off Land's End. It is more than a foot in length.
The fish is equipped with a suction disk which enables it to attach itself to porpoises, whales, sharks, and sometimes ships.

beautiful chestnut mare, Irish

Jumping Class in one of the feature events of yesterday evening's Horse Show. Miss Dorothy Hoganof Duncan, received the red ribbon for her skillful performance on Buckskin Bob in the difficult and treacherous Handy Hunter-Jumper class. The log jump and the tableon which a red-coated dummy reposed proved a great stumbling block to a number of the horses in the latter event. The final performance of the Horse Show will be held in the Horse Show Building this evening at 8.30 when the major events will be the Grafton broad jump, thoroughbred jumper
class and the finals of the six-horse team driving contest.The two final events on yesterday evening's programme—the Handy Hunter and the performance jump—had been postponed from Wednesday to Thursday because of a high pitch at all times. With six difficult jumps to clear in the former class and four high jumps in the latter, a splendid exhibition was put on by the various winners.In the performance class Miss Whyte's horse cleared all the post and rail jumps, except the last which was
"faulked" with the hind legs, by a good foot. It was one of the best exhibitions of jumping ever seen in the local ring. In this event Miss "Joe" Rithet on Nevada came a good second. While Irish Jury knocked the last bar down
Nevada "faulked" on the third bar.Begger Boy, a bay gelding ridden by Mrs. D. B. Carley of the Victoria Riding Academy, received third prize money for a fine showing.

UP-ISLAND HORSE WINS

With only a "faulk" on the picket fence jump, Miss Dorothy Hogan of Duncan astride the buckskin gelding, Buckskin Bob, easily led the field to take the Handy Hunter jumping class.
Six varied jumps, including a large log mounted on two trestles and a red-coated dummy on a table with a bench on either side, had to be navigated by the riders. Miss Hogan's mount was the only horse which did not balk at either the dummy or the log on the first attempt. Miss "Joe" Rithet placed second with her chestnut gelding Nevada after a fine exhibition. While Mrs. T. K. Matthews on Tarzan was given third place.The six-horse team class was won by Crystal Dairies of Vancouver, while Robt. Thorburn, who also drove a team of Clydesdales, received second place.
Thorburn's team attracted the attention of the crowd and got a great deal of applause. William Geary of Vancouver was the judge.In the class for road hacks, mare o-gelding, Mrs. T. K. Matthews's chestnut hunter Tarzan, was given first place,
while Mrs. D. L. Gillespie's Ambergast, ridden by Miss Iris Bryan, getting the nod for second money over J. Macallan who rode Mrs. J. Macallan's chestnut gelding Tallman.Mrs. J. Russell of Vancouver, riding
the Russell Riding Academy entry Seaman, a chestnut gelding, was adjudgedthe winner in the saddle class. The horse easily outstripped the rest of the field in the showing of the various paces required, walk, trot and canter.
Mrs. J. Macallan on Tallman was second, while Miss Barbara Winslow, astride Carry On, was third.

AMUSING INCIDENT

An amusing happening took place in the children's jumping class, which was for prizes donated by Mrs. Dugald
L. Gillespie and the Victoria Riding Academy, when young Jackie Russell
of Vancouver, riding a strange horse, Elda, a Shawnigan Lake Riding Academy entry, was unseated over the first brush jump. With no rider in the saddle the bay mare evaded the efforts of attendants to catch her but was driven to the three-foot six-triple bar.
When the ring master attempted to catch hold of the reins the wily mare cleared the difficult jump and ran to the exit gate where she waited patiently for the attendant to come and let her out.A sparkling performance in this class brought Mrs. D. L. Gillespie's handsome silver trophy to Ian Ross who rode Ebony, a black mare. Miss
"Peter" Forbes of Cobble Hill was close behind Ross in this class and took second place. Miss Forbes was astride the light-horse class, while Major D.
V. Porteous acted as ring master with George W. Allison as his assistant.

AUTO SOCIAL IS ENJOYED

Metropolitan Y.P.S. Opens Season With Novel Entertainment

The entertainment at the fall opening of the Metropolitan Young People's Society took the form of an "auto social." As the members came in they saw a detour sign and followed the road marks around to the assembly room. The meeting opened with the young people's hymn "On to Victory," followed by a brief prayer by Rev. J. H. A. Watt. On behalf of the official board and the church, the pastor, Rev. E. F. Church, welcomed the young people and wished them every success during the new year. The president, Don McCall, welcomed all the members and said that they all would enter into the fellowship heartily and make this year even better than last year, and was glad that so many had turned out to see this year "off with a bang"—at just the psychological moment six of the members burst large paper bags.

Every one was given a piece of a jigsaw puzzle which they had to use and search among the crowd until they found a piece that would join with theirs until the completed sections made a picture of a car. The groups were then followed by a "motor romance," "detour," "family Ford," "car contest," all games in which everyone entered heartily. One of the interesting games was the making of cars by each of the groups out of chairs, many ingenious designs resulted from their efforts. Refreshments were in the form of "gas," or coffee, and a number of "tires," or doughnuts.

A very happy time was closed with the singing of "Abide With Me." The programme was under the direction of Miss Jessie Christopher, Miss Dorothy Cronk and Don McCall. Refreshments were served under the convenship of Elbert Wood. The decorations of car signs were made by Bert Simpson.

TO HONOR ITS PIONEER WOMEN

W.C.T.U. Jubilee Convention in Vancouver Next Week Plans Pageant

Provincial Body Organized in Victoria in 1883; Charter Members Here

The fiftieth convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to be held in Chown United Church in Vancouver from September 18 to 21, will be of special interest to old-timers of Victoria, as it was in this city, just fifty years ago, that the organization was formed in British Columbia.

It was largely through the efforts of Rev. Coverdale Watson, then pastor of Pandora Street Methodist Church, that the temperance leader and orator, Frances Willard, came to Victoria, and on July 3, 1883, organized the women of the city and province. The work received the support of Mayor Redfern of Victoria, Premier John Robson and ministers of all the churches, as well as many leading business and professional men of the city.

These pioneer friends of the movement will be specially remembered on Wednesday, September 20, when, during the morning session, a "memory hour" will recall interesting events of those early days in various parts of B.C., beginning, of course, with Victoria. In the afternoon of the same day a birthday party will be held to celebrate the golden jubilee, a special birthday cake having been donated for the occasion.

Many interesting women are expected to be present. Mrs. C. Spofford, the first secretary and present president of the Victoria Council of Women, will be among those to whom the tribute of the union will be given.

Pioneer members will be introduced individually by the president, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie. Appreciation of early work will be expressed by Mrs. Gordon Burke on behalf of the present membership and by other group representatives.

In response to these greetings, Mrs. Alexander Lamb will give the address of the evening. Mrs. Lamb, an outstanding speaker on missionary and temperance subjects, received her white ribbon of membership from Miss Frances Willard.

Five Chapters Receive Report From Delegate

Mrs. A. F. Griffiths Reviews Proceedings of National
I.O.D.E. Meeting

Order Considered Many Questions
During Year; Work
Shows Progress

Questions dealt with by the National Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, during the last year were varied in character, resolutions forwarded to them including those approving Remembrance Day, disapproving of the standardized version of "O Canada," asking for refusal of further grants of land to Doukhobors, seeking preference for Canadians in the labor market, taking up the private matter of individual pensions, asking for a nurse for the Banish Indian Reserve and asking for stricter rules for naturalization applications.

This was revealed in the comprehensive report by Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, provincial vice-president, yesterday evening before members of the five chapters whom she represented at the National Chapter annual meeting. Mrs. Griffiths was the official delegate of Camosun, Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, H.M.S. Resolution, Robert Burns McKinnon and Mary Croft Esquimalt chapters, and members of each of these were included in the gathering held in the headquarters, Union Building.

BRITISH FILMS
The Navy League and Sea Cadets had been given every encouragement, coats in the sailors' homes were being maintained, and donations made for the benefit of seamen. Child Welfare League of Nations, Empire Study, War Memorial committee reports had been given by the various convener.

According to the report of the films convener, Miss Joan Arnold, British films were gaining in popularity. The Quebec law that children under sixteen years of age may not enter a moving picture theatre accompanied or unaccompanied by an adult, was thought to be an excellent one, and the convener urged that all provinces make the same law.

EDUCATIONAL WORK
The Endowment Fund was increasing, now amounting to $8,000, and it was suggested that a special Endowment Fund convener be appointed in each chapter. Girl Guides had been helped by the order, and many provinces support companies. Educational work was being carried on in all chapters.

Mrs. William V. Gies, fifty-eight, died at her home here from internal injuries and severe shock.

Mrs. J. Chamberlain and her daughter Miss Margaret Chamberlain, nineteen, both of Kitchener, are in serious condition at the home of Cal Suter, near where the mishap took place.

Mrs. Chamberlain has several cracked ribs. Both women are suffering from severe shock.

Mr. Gies, husband of the fatally-injured woman, suffered abrasions when the car was crushed.

One of the most popular rendezvous at the Provincial Fall Fair this week has been the Hudson's Bay Company's fashion show staged each evening in the automobile building. The photograph shows a general view of the stage and mannequins, and a small section of the big crowd of spectators.

The style show will be repeated this evening and again on Saturday evening, with the addition of several small children, who will show what the well-dressed child will wear for the coming season both in the way of frocks, hats and coats. There will also be a number of changes in the array of styles shown by the older mannequins.

Victoria Composers' Work on Interesting Programme Yesterday Evening

The programme presented at the September meeting of the Victoria and Islands Branch Canadian Authors Association held last evening in Unity Centre, was of wide appeal, and attracted a representative gathering of those whose interests are chiefly in literary and musical pursuits.

The first public hearing of the overture and prelude to "Sea King's Daughter," a ballad opera by Marion Isabel Angus, was played by the composer, Eric Edwards, at the piano, assisted by Miss Connie Laing and Hewitt Foster, violins, and Carl Benn, cello. Fred Wright, accompanied by Mrs. Wright, sang "Delightfully 'Vinland the Fair,' and the love song, "Song of Asgerd." Mr. Edwards, who is deeply interested in Norwegian music, found scope for some excellent work in the theme of the opera, the scene of which is laid in Norway in the year 1001, before Christianity had conquered the stern North, and the old gods and traditions were still honored and revered.

Mrs. Mary McCoy Jameson, president of the Victoria Musical Arts Society, who ably spoke upon "Music and Poetry," congratulated Mr. Edwards and his associate musicians upon their pleasing rendition of the music of this clever young composer, from whom she predicted, more will be heard. Mrs. Angus was congratulated upon the inspiration of her libretto which had prompted the musical settings. Mrs. Jameson's address, which told the story of the close relationship of music and poetry through the ages, was of the keenest interest and was warmly applauded.

C. C. Pemberton gave a highly amusing and very instructive paper on the "Use and Abuse of Chinook in Daily Language, and the Use and Misuse of Chinook terms in Writing."

The meanings of some well-known terms were clarified, and several anecdotes illustrated their use and abuse through lack of proper intonation.

J. P. Hicks, president of the Victoria and Islands Branch, who presided at the meeting, added some of his personal experiences with this extremely expressive language. W. Newcombe spoke on the "Origin of Chinook" the trade language first heard of at Nootka. The Indian trade route went as far south as California, as far north as Skagway, and inland to the Yukon, and the words of Chinook have been found common to Captain Cook, James Strange, and other explorers, and Chinook is still used on the West

work, which is so close to the heart of the I.O.D.E., was gaining ground, and the superintendent of education in Nova Scotia had paid the following public tribute to the work: "The Daughters of the Empire are rendering invaluable aid in the cause of education, especially in remote districts where interest in the schools is often difficult to secure."

Among the recommendations for the National Educational committee, endorsed by the meeting, was one providing that the picture, "Canada's Answer," be included free in libraries of the value of $10 or more.

FLOWERS PRESENTED
Every phase of I.O.D.E. endeavor which had been discussed at the annual meeting was summarized in Mrs. Griffiths' report, which was listened to with the greatest interest by members of the chapter present last evening, and at the conclusion, Mrs. A. E. Hopkins moved a hearty vote of appreciation to Mrs. Griffiths, which was seconded by Mrs. H. G. Bolt. Both Mrs. Griffiths and Mrs. Curtis Macpherson, the provincial president, received charming corsage bouquets. Mrs. T. R. Myers, regent of the Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, and convener of the evening, presented the flowers to Mrs. Griffiths and Mrs. F. R. Wright, regent of the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter, making the presentation to Mrs. Simpson.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Andrew Mackenzie and Mrs. T. W. Allan. The table had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. Wallace McIntosh and Mrs. Nelson Hicks, of the Robert Burns McKinnon Chapter. A bowl of pink snapdragon and purple larkspur, with maidenhair fern, made a lovely centerpiece, with smaller vases of snapdragon and yellow marigolds at the corners. Many candles burned in silver chandeliers. Mrs. Mackenzie poured tea and representatives of the five chapters assisted in serving. These were Miss Jean MacLaren and Miss Dorothy O'Grigton, of H.M.S. Resolution Chapter; Mrs. S. D. Horsford and Mrs. T. W. Allan, of the Mary Croft Chapter; Mrs. A. E. Phillips, of Camosun Chapter; Mrs. E. Brown, and Mrs. K. Chadwick, of Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, and Mrs. Wallace Wilson, of the Robert Burns McKinnon Chapter.

In appreciation of their assistance in decorating the table, Mrs. Myers thanked the members of the Robert Burns McKinnon Chapter, and also expressed her thanks to all those who had helped in making the evening such a delightful one.

COAT AND GOWN TO MATCH NOW
Striking Colors To Be Worn, Says Paris; New Silhouettes

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 15.—The rule of matching frocks to coats is back on the fashion scene after two years of virtual banishment.

Colors are too striking this year to permit much contrast. The difficulty of finding contrasting hues which would harmonize with such distinctive tones as olive green or egg-plant purple has sent the style world back to "old faithful"—the rule of matching frock to coat.

Exceptions are found, however, in formal afternoon fashions, where light green frocks appear with dark green coats and cocoa, rose or light blue gowns with black wraps.

The 1934 winter frock has many new notes in its design. Necklines are always high, stopping at a point between the collarbones and the chin. Bodices are generally trimmed in front with a bow or slight draping to accent the bust. The silhouette tells a new story. It fits the figure gently with waistlines either totally lacking, as in princess models, or placed at the normal line.

BY SISTER MARY
TWO GOOD RULES FOR TOMATO
MINCE MEAT

If you have your own vegetable garden you can salvage those tomatoes before danger of frost becomes imminent by making green tomato mince meat.

Many persons consider this mince meat, quite as good as "regular" mince meat, and certain it is, that it's not as rich and difficult to digest as the meat variety. And it is more economical to make.

There are two good rules for green tomato mince meat. One uses suet and the other does not. Of course, the one with suet is richer than the one without. The suetless mixture is very like a preserve highly spiced and piquant. Nuts can be added to either recipe when the pies are baked.

MOCK MINCE MEAT

One peck green tomatoes, 3 lemons, 1 cup chopped suet, 2 cups seeded raisins, 4 pounds light brown sugar, 1 1/2 cups vinegar, 2 tablespoons powdered cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ground nutmeg, 1 tablespoon ground allspice, 1 tablespoon salt.

Wash tomatoes and cut out stem ends and any blemishes. Put through food chopper. Place in a large crock, sprinkling 1 cup salt through them. Let stand three hours. Drain over night through a colander and discard juice. Squeeze juice from lemons and put rind through food chopper. Add juice, lemon rind, vinegar and suet to tomatoes in preserving kettle, bring to the boiling point and cook fifteen minutes. Add sugar, raisins and spices and bring again to boiling point. Simmer until thick and seal in hot sterilized jars. When pies are baked, chopped apple and nuts can be added as liked.

lemons, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 2 tablespoons cloves, 1 teaspoon salt. Wash and slice tomatoes. Sprinkle with salt and let stand three hours. Drain over night and discard juice as in preceding recipe. Weight tomatoes after draining. Put sugar, tomatoes, thinly sliced lemons and a little water into preserving kettle and cook until tomatoes are tender. Add raisins and spices and cook ten minutes longer. Seal in sterilized jars.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast — Orange juice, cereal, cream, waffles, honey, milk, coffee.

Luncheon — Green peppers stuffed with salmon, bran bread, baked pears, ginger cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner — Veal stew with dumplings, fried summer squash, celery, cabbage, and carrot salad, cheese cake, sweet cider, milk.

MORE PEOPLE PAY
NEW LOWER PRICE

The first day of the reduced admission price at the Willows Exhibition saw 120 more people pay admissions than on the corresponding day last year. Total paid admissions yesterday were 4,839, while on Thursday last year the number of persons who bought tickets was 4,719.

Total admissions to the fair this week have been estimated by officials as being over 96,000 persons. This includes exhibitors, attendants and others who come and go two or three times a day. Tickets sold, including 910 tickets issued to the unemployed on Wednesday, reach a total of 19,264.

Your Baby and Mine

MOST BEHAVIOR TYPICAL OF CHILD'S AGE

It is more than true that the solution of one mother's problem is helpful to numerous other mothers. No child problem is an isolated one. Children are woefully and amusingly original in their behavior.

Here is a typical eighteen months old child. "She is," Mrs. D. E. B. states, "headstrong and impatient. She has the very bad habit of putting everything into her mouth. I have tried every way I can think of to attack this, from ignoring it to slapping fingers."

BITING HABIT

"She also has acquired a bad habit of biting and hitting until we do not know what to do next. She was perfectly trained but has now fallen by the wayside and leaves puddles all over the house. I have taken her to a doctor and know there is nothing wrong with her kidneys. She is very active, very healthy and a beautiful child until her temper is aroused. I try not to cross her but there are times when I cannot let her do as she wishes."

Without exception this whole behavior situation is characteristic of the child's age. It is a manifestation of distaste with things and they are the child's method of trying to manipulate them to her own greater satisfaction.

IGNORE BAD HABITS

Look at the situation squarely. There are some things the child must do. Make her do them. When temper tantrums occur, ignore them. Do not give the child more opportunities for pleasant and harmless liberty. Ignore the uncleanly habits. Put her by herself when she bites or slaps and by this isolation from your society emphasize your disapproval.

I offer several leaflets designed to help the mother through this period of childhood. "Renewing Good Toilet Habits," "Directing the Small Child's Curiosity," "How to Manage the Child Wisely," should be helpful. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope when asking for these leaflets.

Establish some object, basket or box, as the receptacle to hold the objects she picks up. Have you ever used a playpen? They are invaluable at this period for safety and convenience as well as a means of avoiding punishable situations.

To-morrow: "Too Much Milk Second Year Encourages Undernourishment."

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile ... Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey. That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you feel puny. Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, sourness, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Pain is likely. All of course, because your system is full of poisons.

More bowel moves like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct the condition entirely. You're livery and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and safe; but how they do change your view on life!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get the real thing. It's in a box of Carter's, on the red label. 25¢ at all drug stores.

WELFARE WORK IS SUSPENDED

Saanich Association Forced to Cease Operation Owing to Lack of Support

Owing to lack of finances and general support, the Saanich Welfare Association will be forced to cease operation on September 22, the municipal council was informed yesterday evening.

This word was received with regret by the council, which, although appreciating the excellent work of the ladies in charge, was unable to see its way clear to offer any assistance.

The valuable work done by the association was indicated in the annual report which was read at the meeting. The council decided to write the association, expressing sincerest thanks for its fine work and regretting inability to offer further aid.

Uncle Wiggily and the Honey

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

The day after Uncle Wiggily had tried to sing the morning song in the Hollow Stump School, but had to stop and whistle instead, the rabbit gentleman hopped off in the woods by himself. He was a little ashamed because he hadn't sung better.

"But I am going to practice until I can sing as good as a phonograph, if not the radio," said Mr. Longears to himself.

He came to a deep, dark, lonesome part of the woods and there, thinking himself alone, Uncle Wiggily opened his mouth and began to sing. At least he thought it was singing and he made a great deal of noise. All of a sudden there was a sound overhead in the tree under which Uncle Wiggily was standing to sing.

"Hi there! Stop it! Stop it!" shouted a growling voice.

"Stop what?" asked Uncle Wiggily, hoping it was none of the Bad Chaps up in the tree. "What do you want me to stop?"

"Stop that howling!" said the voice. "Are you sick? Why are you howling so terribly?"

He began to play

"What are you doing then?" asked the voice.

"I was singing," spoke the rabbit. "At least I was practicing my singing so I can help the Lady Mouse teach in the Hollow Stump School lead the children in their morning song. I was singing, that's what I was doing."

"Singing? Oh, my goodness! Singing! Oh, my goodness! Singing! Oh, my goodness! Singing!" laughed the voice up in the tree.

Then, all of a sudden, down scrambled Mr. Stubbail, the bear gentleman, his paws all sticky, and his nose likewise.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" asked the bear, as he saw the rabbit.

"Who did you think it was, Mr. Stubbail?"

"I wasn't sure," was Mr. Stubbail's answer. "I thought it was the Skilley Skilley Alligator with the humps on his tail. But now I see

Ancient Swedish Tomb Contained Swords and Chief's Mail

Canadian Press

Stockholm, Sept. 15.—The tomb of a king chieftain, buried more than 900 years ago was recently found at Angora in Central Sweden. The tomb clearly showed the warrior was of high rank and furnished an interesting sample of the burying customs of his day. He had been interred with full armor and with a fine sword, evidently used in England.

The sword hilt was decorated with silver ornaments, on one of which some runes had been engraved, probably intended to make the bearer victorious in warfare in the great underworld. At his feet two wooden chests of iron mountings, probably containing food, had been placed.

To provide for his amusement on his last journey a set of precious foreign glass play-men had been buried with him. At the foot of the grave his horse and dog had been interred.

In the immediate vicinity a heavy sword, a larger spear-head and some simple game pieces of bone were found. Archaeologists believe these may have been the belongings of the servant buried with his master to serve as his escort and defender in death.

Gas in the Stomach
Is Dangerous

Daily Use of Bisurated Magnesia Overcomes Troubles Caused by Acid Indigestion

Gas in the stomach, accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating is almost certain evidence of too much hydrochloric acid in the stomach, causing so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous. Too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leads to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers.

Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to try to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a little Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in water right after eating. This will drive out the gas, wind and bloated, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation.

Bisurated Magnesia (in powder form—never in liquid or milk) is harmless, inexpensive, and a fine remedy for acid stomach. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no fear of indigestion.

GAME SEASON TO COMMENCE

uck Deer and Blue Grouse Become Lawful Game Tomorrow; Deer Plentiful

To-morrow will herald the real opening of the 1933-34 hunting season when buck deer and blue grouse become lawful game. The actual season was ushered in on September 9, when hand-banded pigeons were thrown open but the majority of the hunters have been waiting for deer and blue grouse to come in before starting their activities. The season on pigeons will close on October 15.

The deer season in the western district will be from to-morrow until December 15, with the exception of Laysan Island. Blue grouse in the western district are in season, with the exception of Hornby and Denman Islands, from to-morrow until Oct. 31. Deer are reported plentiful in all districts on the Island, while a fair number of blue grouse have been seen in recent weeks.

Hunter are also reminded that no hunting will be allowed in Saanich on Sundays.

Hunting licenses are only procurable at the office of the game department, Parliament Buildings.

Provincial police have issued a warning to hunters to be careful when hunting on the West Coast. Men panning gold in the streams along the coast already have been mistaken for game at a distance as they crouch over their pans.

Two Women Appear in Court After Affair in Police Charge Office

When her friend, Athia, was taken to police headquarters on a charge of intoxication, Phyllis went to tell the police what she thought about it early this morning.

She was told to leave, gently at first, but firmly later, and eventually Constable Walter Andrews was called upon to eject her.

She was not satisfied, and finished the argument by putting her fist through the window of the charge office door.

This morning in the City Police Court Phyllis pleaded guilty to doing wilful damage to the extent of $4.15 to city property. She was fined $5 and the amount of the damage, or five days.

Athia was fined $25 or five days for being intoxicated in a public place.

LAST RITES HELD
 Funeral services were held this morning for John Hill Cross Bingham, who passed away Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital. Rev. Father O'Neill celebrated mass at 9 o'clock in the presence of many sorrowing friends. Many beautiful floral tributes were received. Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery. The bearers were: Jack Bellis, Arthur Bellis, J. Welsh and H. Wilson.

WING DENIES HOLD-UP ROLE

Was Not in Dan Mar's Motor Party, He Testifies; Trial Adjourned

Wing Hope, on trial with Fong Sing for the robbing of two gardeners at midnight on August 6 at Hatley Park, took the stand in the County Court before Judge Lempman and under examination by Frank Higgins, K.C., defence counsel, denied he had been a member of the party auto-robbing in the hold-up.

Wing swore he had been sick that day, had remained in bed all evening and did not get up until the afternoon of the next day, Sunday.

To Prosecutor C. L. Harrison Wing admitted he was something of a wheeler, having appeared in public in that capacity, and having been questioned by Inspector Robert Owens in connection with the tying up of another Chinese at Hatley Park.

Wing said last year's episode was only a little joke they were playing on the man. He denied he had while in the jail cells threatened "to knock the block off" Fong Sing if he told on him. Wing also said Dan Mar had been trying to borrow some money from him, but had been refused.

POLICEMAN'S WIFE APPETIZING COOK

Mrs. A. G. Carmichael Wins Many Honors at Fall Exhibition

The skill at cooking of Mrs. A. G. Carmichael, made Constable Carmichael of the Provincial Police the envy of the force yesterday when they read of the appetizing dishes in which the officer's wife excels at making. Mrs. Carmichael sent nine entries to the Provincial Exhibition and secured seven prizes. She took first prizes for white bread, mince meat and short-bread, second for sultana cake and seed cake, and third for nut bread and date bread. Her apple pie and pound cake looked delicious but failed to win a place. For the last five years Mrs. Carmichael has been an entry at the fair and a consistent winner. Last year she got four firsts and three seconds.

STOCKMEN HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

"Eat More Beef," Premier Tolmie Says in Address at Exhibition To-day

Warns Against Illusive Ways to Prosperity; Stick to Proven Methods

"In my opinion the safest and surest way out of the depression is intelligent industry, thrift, commonsense methods in business and opportunities when they present themselves to us," said Premier Tolmie in an address at the annual stockmen's dinner which was held in the First United Church restaurant at the Willows Exhibition this afternoon.

"The government is prepared to make changes to meet conditions," the Premier continued, "Avoid being stampeded by illusions; keep your feet on the ground and look carefully. Short cuts to prosperity have been tried in Great Britain and other countries and have proved failures. The only way to build the way back is by sane methods on a sound foundation."

In his speech the Premier congratulated T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, and W. H. Means, secretary, for their untiring efforts in putting the seventy-second fair over in a manner that would make it long remembered.

Orderly marketing would be absolutely necessary to bring stockmen "out of the red," the speaker asserted. He suggested a "Beef Week" in which the slogan "Eat More Beef" would be used, as a possible remedy. Dr. Tolmie outlined briefly the economic conditions of the British Columbia exhibitors at the Regina Seed Show.

Mayor Leeming expressed the thanks of the citizens of Victoria to the stockmen and other exhibitors for bringing their fine displays to the Victoria fair. He expressed the hope that they would stay in the city as long as they possibly could and he assured them that they would be welcome at any time.

As special guests at the dinner were Vancouver Island winners at the Regina Seed and Grain Exhibition. Those present included: W. D. Michell of Kelowna, B. Young of Kamloops, C. W. Sterling of Sidney, and W. James of Duncan. Other winners, unable to attend the dinner were: J. E. Delowrie of Shawnigan Lake, A. Marlow of Port Alberni, and J. Sweeney of Cadboro Bay.

Reeve Mayhew of Oak Bay spoke on "The Fair and What It Means to the Citizen." He spoke of the value, not only in dollars and cents, but in the more important standpoint its value to the boys and girls in educational lines.

W. T. Streith, vice-president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, spoke on "Seed and Bulb Growing" and pledged the support of his organization to any Vancouver Island grower who was desirous of expanding his market.

He spoke of the plan of displaying Vancouver Island seeds and bulbs at all fairs west of Winnipeg which was conceived some time ago by the chamber.

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe emphasized the fact in his speech that it was not only necessary to obtain a market but to strive to keep that market by honest, fair and square dealing with the consumer. He said the government had helped to establish markets but that it was up to the producers to see that they kept the market by straightforward dealing with the consumer.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

ROBERT LOVE
 HENRY VICTOR COOLEY
 RICHARD PROUSE

Richard Prouse, is the oldest resident of Nanaimo and that city's oldtimers are to-day congratulating him on the attainment of his ninety-third birthday at his home on Farquhar Street. He was born in England in 1840 and since that day claims he has only had one serious illness. He was among the British soldiers who guarded the Old Land's interests in the San Juan Island dispute and after that secured employment as the first steward in the Jubilee Hospital here. He has lived in Nanaimo for sixty-four years, and often entertains many of his friends with thrilling stories of the old days on Vancouver Island.

Robert Love, who is a lieutenant in the 56th Battery, 5th B.C. Coast Brigade is receiving birthday congratulations from a host of Victoria friends to-day. Mr. Love is well known in the city, having taken part in various city sports. He resides at 1016 Pembroke Street.

Henry V. Cooley is the son of Victoria's first sheet metal worker, and is observing his birthday to-day. Following in his father's footsteps, Mr. Cooley has also become a member of this trade. He is an active member of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion.

PROMIS BLOCK FIGHT IS WAGED

Litigation Before Canadian and California Courts Is Resumed Here

Judgments of the California Superior Court were to-day refused admittance as evidence in the suit in the Supreme Court here between two California litigants for the possession of the Promis Block, Government Street.

This ruling was made by Mr. Justice Fisher, who declared "the matter has to be decided on its merits."

Alfred Bull, K.C., and C. C. Merritt, counsel for Josephine Andler, Augusta Col. Mary Gillespie, A. G. Col and the estates of Oscar Promis and of Sophia Promis, are suing for the return of the property, now in the possession of G. E. Duke, Margaret Duke and the Standard Realty Company of Oakland, Cal. Defending them are Arthur Grease and D. M. Gordon.

This property has been warring before Canadian and California courts for more than three years. The Andler and Promis group won in the British Columbia Supreme and Appeal Courts, but lost out the Supreme Court of Canada, which ruled that the judgment of a foreign court, such as that of the Superior Court of California, was of no effect in Canada. The California court had awarded the property to the Andlers. In the present suit the Andlers ask that the transfer of the Promis Block to the Dukes be set aside. This transfer was made in connection with a proposed sale for $55,000 in 1925 from the Andlers and Promises to the Dukes, which the former now claim was not completed. They also seek an account of the money from the proceeds of a mortgage on the property to Charles Hartley for $30,000.

The trial is expected to continue part of next week.

BEEF HARVEST

Raymond, Alta., Sept. 11.—Southern Alberta's sugar beet harvesting will start September 18 with the crop estimated at 150,000 tons. The sugar refinery here will start operations two days later.

Last year's crop was 157,131 tons but there very little difference in this year's yield as the acreage sown to beets was 250 acres less than last season. The sugar content of the beets is higher this season.

SYMPATHY FOR NATIVE CHIEF

Banishment of Tshakedi Arouses Much Criticism in Africa

Canadian Press
 Johannesburg, South Africa, Sept. 15.—The banishment of Tshakedi, the chief of the Bamangwato tribe in Bechuanaland and his banishment to the Tati district outside the tribal reserve has aroused a storm of comment throughout South Africa.

Sentence was passed yesterday by Vice-Admiral E. R. G. R. Evans, acting high commissioner for the Bechuanaland protectorate following the inquiry by a special commission into the flogging of Phineas Mackintosh, a white resident, who stood trial by a native court. Mackintosh, who was charged by Tshakedi with "living like a native with a native woman," was ordered to live outside the native districts.

Local newspapers regard the handling of the affair by British authorities with misgivings and criticize the sending of marines with machine guns to Seowe near where the inquiry was held. This feature of the inquiry, The Rand Daily Mail describes as a "mere melodramatic gesture, as useless as it must have been expensive." The newspaper demands a fuller statement in

Chicago Cubs In Second Win Over New York Giants

Put on Thrilling Ninth-inning Rally to Whip National Leaders 4 to 2

WASHINGTON IS AGAIN VICTOR

Senators Boost Lead Over Yanks in American League to Nine Games

Whether or not they succeed in their uphill struggle to overtake New York Giants in the National League pennant race, and their chances look good today after two straight victories over the league leaders, Chicago Cubs extended confidence to-day.

They put on a ninth-inning uprising yesterday and took their second rainy day decision from the Giants 4 to 2.

The Giants are still five and one-half games ahead. New York has sixteen more games to play, including doubleheaders at Chicago to-day and to-morrow. The Cubs play thirteen.

While the National League race was closing up, Washington Senators increased their lead in the American League to nine games over the New York Yankees. Coming from behind in the last inning, the Senators scored three runs to defeat Detroit 4 to 3.

The Yankees' game with Cleveland was rained out, as was the St. Louis-Philadelphia contest.

The lowly Phillies defeated Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1. The Boston-Pittsburgh and Brooklyn-St. Louis games never even got started.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago, Sept. 15.—Chicago Cubs wound up a scanty array of shivering fans yesterday by putting on a stirring game of a double-header, but wound up a single contest.

The one victory gave Chicago sole possession of second place and reduces New York's lead in the National League race to five and one-half games. Pittsburgh Pirates, kept idle by rain, dropped to third, a half-game behind the Cubs.

After playing through an hour of misty rain and cold that stiffened fingers and contributed to errors, it was decided one game was enough, and the second game was put off to make part of a double-header Saturday. The Cubs already had a double bill scheduled for to-day.

Going into the ninth trailing 3 to 2 because Second-Baseman Billy Herman tumbled in the seventh, to give the Giants two runs and the lead, the Cubs opened up against Fred Fitzsimmons and filled the bases with none out. Gabby Hartnett, then drove home the tying and winning runs with a single to centre.

Pat Malone, who succeeded Charlie Root after the latter had given way to a pinch hitter in the eighth, drew credit for his ninth victory of the season. It was Fitzsimmons' eleventh defeat.

CHAMPION VICTIM OF STERLING PLAY.

Noyes perhaps lost his match with Munger because he picked up a pear lying alongside his ball in an old tractor road on the twenty-sixth hole of a battle that witnessed some as-

Unthinking, the youngster tossed the fruit to one side, then fired a good iron shot from a difficult position to the front of the green.

He was immediately advised by the referee, John C. Jackson of New York, an official of the U.S.O.A., that he had lost the hole, as the road, through an old pear orchard, constituted a hazard.

At the time Noyes was leading by two up. The incident proved somewhat nerve-shattering to the younger man. In the next eight holes his game pretty well went to pieces.

NEVER BEHIND
Munger, a broad-shouldered, bespectacled youth, acted more like a veteran than an almost untitled school-boy in his match with Westland. After being three down at any stage, they were all even after the first four holes, but thereafter Munger enjoyed a margin of one to five holes. The youngster outplayed and out-gutted his older rival most of the way.

Held always had an uphill battle against Dunlap after losing four of the first five holes to the latter's sub-par blast.

Eddie managed to hold his rival on even terms and finished the morning round no worse than three down, but he had neither the control nor the shots to make much headway.

Dunlap was five up at the twenty-seventh and ended the match on the thirty-first green.

Apprentice Boys Ride Six Firsts At Willows Oval

Walter Thorogood, Vancouver Boy, Wins the Double With Katte L. and Budover

FINISHES ARE VERY DECISIVE

Stanstill Surprises in Fourth by Taking Place Position; Local Horse Wins

Apprentice boys practically spent the card at Willows race track yesterday afternoon.

Except for the first race, in which Jockey Cochlin piloted Lord Goldstream home a winner, the young riders were aboard the leading mounts.

Forrest Daniels, sensation of the Hastings Park meet, was down in front with Star Crescent and Zelma Mac. Walter Thorogood rode the daily double with Katte L. and Budover. Carson and Young were his other apprentice boys riding winning mounts.

The public found the pickings good generally and only one winner, Budover, paid double figures. The other winners were all first or second choices.

The track was muddy and as a result the finishes were very decisive, the biggest thrill of the day being when Lord Goldstream charged from far back to win the opener, paying off at three to one. Jungle Shaw was second after a terrific pace-making duel with Jerry Mac and the latter was third.

Katte L. made a parade out of the second event, which was the first half of the daily double. Leading from the break, Mrs. Betty Foster's mare was never threatened and won as her rider pleased. Advana lay close to the pace at all times and was an easy second with Vance Britte, an outsider, taking the show.

Daniels rode a smart race to score with Star Crescent in the third, defeating the speedy Evelyn May and Tusculotta which finished second and third respectively.

Budover, beaten a nose in his previous out, scored comfortably to complete the double in the fourth under a fine ride by Thorogood. Stanstill, an outsider in the mutuels, took the place, paying $10.70, which was the biggest price of the day.

Queen of Prosper led from wire to wire in the fifth and turned back repeated challenges from the veteran Rufe McClain, which finished in the second position. Dawn Breeze was third.

In the sixth, Silver Bond won with almost ridiculous ease, moving up on the pace-makers after going half a mile to win the gallop over the mile and seventy yards route by about eight lengths.

Zelma Mac, the locally owned horse, led from the barrier to the wire in the final event, being rated nicely by Jockey Daniels to score a handy win. Bastko was second and Barrie Oliver, the famous two-miler, got the show.

The results:
First race—Claiming; for western-bred horses, three-year-olds and older; six furlongs and thirty yards:
Lord Goldstream (115), Thorogood, 5.05 3.35
Jungle Shaw (160), Thorogood, 5.05 3.35
Jerry Mac (115), Spoor, 2.75

Also ran: Western Holiday, Elton Whittier, Extension and Ballo Whittier. Time, 1:18 4-5.
Second race—Claiming; three-year-olds and older; six furlongs and thirty yards:
Katte L. (109), Thorogood, 5.30 3.30
Advana (115), Chidsey, 3.35 3.30
Vance Britte (115), Athey, 6.55
Also ran: Ruth C. Aspin, Agin, Gold

QUITS HOCKEY

With the hockey season rapidly approaching, the new try, Louis Chabot, star goalkeeper for the Toronto Maple Leafs, had decided to retire, came as a bombshell to the sporting world. The Maple Leafs have not yet commented on Chabot's statement and critics think an unsatisfactory agreement between the player and the club caused the trouble.

Chabot, a broad-shouldered, bespectacled youth, acted more like a veteran than an almost untitled school-boy in his match with Westland. After being three down at any stage, they were all even after the first four holes, but thereafter Munger enjoyed a margin of one to five holes. Fred Perry Opens Campaign To-day for Coast Honors

Los Angeles, Sept. 15.—Frederick Perry, England, newly-crowned champion of the United States, arrived yesterday from the east for the annual Pacific Southwest tennis championship and found himself listed number one in the seedings for the tourney which got under way to-day.

Accompanying Perry were three other English stars, Frank H. D. Wilde, Harold C. N. Lee and Edward R. Avey.

Seeded number two was none other than Elsworth Vines, former national champion, who made an inauspicious return home to Pasadena late Wednesday.

CHAMPIONS ARE GOLF WINNERS

Favorites Continue to Rule Play in Canadian Women's Championship

Margery Kirkham, Defending Titleholder, Extended to Beat Mrs. J. Rogers

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—Near defeat of the defending champion, long-driving Margery Kirkham, Montreal, stood out as the surprise match of championship play in the Canadian Women's Open golf tournament here yesterday, as she and three other titleholders advanced to the semi-final to-day.

Champion of Manitoba last year, Mrs. John Rogers, Winnipeg, forced Miss Kirkham to play the full eighteen holes in quarter-final match competition before she bowed to defeat, 1 down.

Ada Mackenzie, Toronto holder of the closed title to be defended at St. Charles Country Club here next week, advanced by a straightforward victory over Lois McLaren, Winnipeg, 7 and 6.

Mrs. R. K. Bearlston, Winnipeg City and Manitoba champion, played the most brilliant golf of her career to four the last seven holes in even 4's and eliminating a comedy rival Ottawa-Golf Club title-seeker, Marjory Murphy, 5 and 4.

Last, but not least of the crown-wearers, Isabel Pepall, Ontario junior titlist from Toronto, established herself as a dangerous opponent to the defender in the semi-finals to-day when she took the measure of Mrs. P. Pellenz, Winnipegger, who has three times held the Manitoba championship, 5 and 4.

TURNING POINT
A spectacular shot on the tenth gave Miss Kirkham confidence, and proved the turning point of the close match, after being three down at the turn. Stymied, the Montreal girl carefully chipped over Mrs. Rogers' ball and into the cup to win the hole. She was at her best the rest of the way to take the match.

The experience that showed to such good advantage when she won the qualifying medal last Monday, yesterday enabled Miss Mackenzie to take an easy victory from Miss McLaren, although the Manitoba girl had her in a bad position twice in the game. The Ontario champion was never behind in her match yesterday against Mrs. Pellenz.

Coast Elevens To Perform At Night

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—Arrangements have been completed with Bob Brown by Archie Sinclair, acting on behalf of the Coast League soccer clubs, for the use of Athletic Park for the coming season, according to announcement made by Sinclair yesterday. It is the intention to start play on Saturday, September 23, immediately following the Canadian Rugby game and also to play night matches under the floodlights until the Canadian rugby schedule is completed.

HORSE RACING WILL OPEN AT CALIENTE ON DEC. 24

Agua Caliente, Mex., Sept. 15.—Despite the legalization of horse racing betting in California, the Agua Caliente Jockey Club in Baja, California, will be back in the running again this winter, Joseph M. Schenck, president of the Mexican border track, announced yesterday. The meeting will open December 24, with the Agua Caliente handicap feature classic of the annual running, to be renewed at a date and with a purse to be decided later.

Young Corbett To Become Instructor

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 15.—Young Corbett III, former welterweight champion, who recently announced his retirement from the ring, was recommended yesterday by E. Raymond Cato, chief of the state highway patrol, for the post of physical instructor in the patrol school.

Cato sent the recommendation to Theodore J. Roche, director of the motor vehicle department, who is expected to approve the appointment. The school will open at the state fair grounds here, September 25 and continue seven months. Corbett is to give athletic instruction to 550 patrolmen who will attend the school in small groups.

Aged Horse Wins And Debt Is Paid

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Abe Furst is a horse whose races have been many, but slow. To aging O. G. Brown, Abe was a last hope. City Sheriff James Burgess appeared yesterday at Brown's home with an attachment on Abe. The debt was $100.

Brown looked despairingly at the sky, which was gray with rain. "Won't you let him run to-day?" he entreated. "I'm sure he'll win."

The third, a claiming race, at Coney Island yesterday offered a purse of $600. The Sheriff relented. Through the mud splashed Abe Furst, a winner. The debt is paid.

Do You Greet Your Wife Like a Soreheaded Bear, But Expect Her to Hand You a Glad, Sweet Smile?—The Responsibility for Making a Happy Home Rests Equally on Both Partners

IF YOU want your wife to be a real helpmate to you, son, you must encourage her in being one. You must interest yourself in her interests. You must go fifty-fifty with her in making a happy home and not dump the whole burden of doing it on her and then howl because she has not made a success of what is a two-handed job.

One of the reasons why there are so many poor, slack, inefficient wives is because men make wifehood the most discouraging profession that any woman can follow. They don't even dignify it by calling it a career. Even the census lists it among the non-gainful occupations for women. Which is cynically right in only too many cases.

The average husband expects his wife to work about fourteen hours a day, with added night duty when necessary, for her board and clothes. He expects her to meet him when he comes home of an evening with a glad, sweet smile, no matter whether he is scowling like a sore-headed bear or not. He feels that it is his privilege to knock her for everything that goes wrong about the place, but he is under no compulsion to give her the glad hand when she pulls off a triumph of a dinner or a bit of financiering that would make a banker's best efforts look sick.

Now, after all, and as little as you may think it, wives are human and they can't put much pep into doing a thing for which they get neither praise nor pay. So, if you want your wife to be a good housekeeper and a cracker-jack cook, don't use the hammer, get busy with the saw and a word of comment. No woman is going to work herself to death preparing dainty dishes for a man who apparently does not know the difference between corned beef and cabbage and broccoli with sauce Hollandaise.

Wives are always being adjured to take an interest in their husband's occupation and to listen intelligently while he tells her about his hopes and plans and ambitions. Believe me, son, that tip works both ways, and if you want to keep your wife on her tiptoes in her home, discuss with her the best way to broil a steak, and put some real heart interest into your views on curtains and rugs. And you will get an awful kick out of going domestic. You won't find any evening dull that you spend planning out menus with your wife and helping to build a beautiful and artistic home.

If you want your wife to be thrifty and economical, teach her how to handle money. Show her how to budget her income. Give her as liberal an allowance as you can afford to run the house on and for herself and then show her how to get the most out of it.

Reflect that the average young girl never has the handling of any money until she marries. She has always had things charged on papa's account or mother has bought everything for her and so a dollar looks as much as Henry Ford's money. It is the first time in her life that she ever had more than carfare in her purse and so it is not strange that she goes on an orgy of spending.

Don't just bowl her out for this. That will only make her resentful and think you are a tightwad. Don't leave her under the illusion that so many women do to have, that a few passes and pulls money out of the air, as a conjurer does rabbits. Make her realize how hard and grueling is the labor by which you earn it, and that every dollar you give her is just a little minted bit of your life, wet with your life blood. Make her feel that she is your partner and that the success of the firm depends just as much on her saving as your making money.

Start your new life together on a pay-as-you-go basis and teach her to save. Thrift is a habit, so is spending. You can form in your bride the one that will lead you to prosperity or to the bankruptcy court. It is up to you.

You want a wife who will be a companion to you. Well, that is another thing that is up to you also. If you want your wife to keep step with you, you must hold her by the hand and see that she marches shoulder to shoulder with you. Drag her along with you if necessary. Don't let her fall behind you. Don't let her slump when the babies come.

Make her read with you and study with you. Make her go to places with you. Make her keep up with the times. Do as one young man did whom I knew, who frankly said to his wife: "I'm going ahead and unless you keep up with me I am going to leave you." When they are young most men are so absorbed in their business and most women are so absorbed in their children that they go different ways and come to the place at last where they have had a speaking acquaintance with each other and bore each other to tears. Don't prepare for yourself this sort of lonely middle age. Cultivate chumminess with your wife from your wedding day if you want to have a wife who is a pal to you at fifty.

Just remember, son, that marriage is what we make it, and it depends even more for its success upon the husband than it does upon the wife. I have never known a really happy home that didn't have a big, strong, wise man at the head of it.

Masters of the Painting Art

TURNER
In 1775 a baby who was destined to become a famous artist was born in England. His name was Joseph-Mallory William Turner, and he was the son of a London barber.

In his early teens Turner began offering his own pictures for sale, and when he was only eighteen he was sent by a publisher to make sketches of scenes in four English counties. At twenty-four he was elected an associate of the Royal Academy.
Turner enjoyed walking over the green fields and tree-clad hills. Going to the continent of Europe for a long walking trip, and making pictures as he went, he strolled along the banks of the Rhine river and amidst the Alps mountains.
Turner lived to the age of seventy-six, and seldom has there been a man who gave more devotion to his work. He is regarded as one of the great landscape artists of all time, and his pictures of bright-colored ships are justly famed.
It is a sad fact that Turner failed in an earnest effort to give help to struggling artists. He left a large sum in trust for such artists, but his will was broken by the courts.
